5

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a system and method for accessing financial information or conducting financial transactions and, more particularly, to an improved system and method for accessing financial information or conducting financial transactions using wireless communications devices, such as cellular telephones, personal digital assistants, and other web-enabled wireless devices.